DETAILED ACTION

Double Patenting

Claims 1-20 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-20 of parent U.S. Patent No. 5,926,533 to Gainsboro. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claims in the continuation are broader than the claims in the parent, In re Van Ornum and Stang, 214 USPQT61, broad claims in continuation applications are rejected as obvious double patenting over previously patented narrow claims. For example, claim 1 of the present invention (continuing application) is the same as same as claim 1 of the parent patent except that the comparing step in the present invention compares "tones" while the parent patent compares "dial tones." Therefore, claim 1 of the present invention is broader than claim 1 of the patent.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-20 would have been allowable notwithstanding the double patenting rejection above.

Examiner's Reasons For Indicating Allowable Subject Matter

See the parent continuing application 08/726,217 (now U.S. Patent No. 5,926,533) for further reasons regarding the examiner's reasons for indicating allowable subject matter.
